PREFACE.

This Catalogue of Newspaper Files in the Library of the Society has been a thing of slow, one might say of spasmodic. growth. Commenced in the autumn of 1894, it was designed to exhibit the condition of the files up to the close of that year. Owing to circumstances beyond our control, which it is not necessary here to recite, work upon the Catalogue was temporarily postponed, soon after printing began; and, despite our best endeavors, it has been possible to continue the undertaking only at long intervals. During the three years in which the book has been in progress of editing and printing, improvements naturally suggested themselves, and these were at once incorporated, although earlier sections had gone to press; the library has meanwhile been enriched by many new files, and it has seemed desirable to bring the Catalogue up to date, as we proceeded. Thus we have the following variations, which would have been inexcusable except for the peculiar conditions of publication, and the fact that this is a pioneer work, for which there were no precedents to follow:

- 1. The first ten pages are practically without Notes; but these grew in frequency and length, as publication progressed, and their utility became more apparent. It is perhaps needless to state that the preparation of these has been attended with great labor, involving extensive research in many fields, and often considerable correspondence; but we believe that their practical value will be evident to every student of history.
- 2. Up to Wisconsin (p. 94), the body of the Catalogue gives the state of the files at the close of 1894; but the Wisconsin section gives the condition of the files of this State at the close of 1895.

viii PREFACE.

3. The United States Addenda was not prepared until the autumn of 1898; it gives additions to the library—not including continuations of journals already mentioned in the body of the Catalogue, and currently received—up to July 1, 1898.

4. The Foreign list, having also been recently prepared, gives the condition of all foreign files up to July 1, 1898.

There are at least two points of approach, in the consultation of newspaper files — the geographical and the chronological. Ordinarily, a person is either seeking data concerning a political division, or is desirous of consulting the newspapers of a particular period. We have therefore divided the Catalogue into two parts - I., Geographical Arrangement, and II., Chronological Arrangement. der Part I. are given a bibliographical description of each journal, and such other data concerning it, descriptive and historical, as we have found obtainable. In Part II., the arrangement is by decades, with abbreviated titles; for details concerning any journal, the reader is referred back to Part I. Add to this the Index, and we believe that the student will find the Catalogue sufficiently equipped with the machinery of consultation. It should, however, be explained that the Index covers only the material in the Notes; sometimes these are not as full as we could desire, and they are missing in the earlier pages of the book. For instance, the caption "Whig Papers" possibly does not embrace all of the organs of that party contained in our collection, because here and there a Note is defective in not mentioning the political sympathies of the paper; but in most particulars, the Index is sufficiently comprehensive. It will be found especially valuable in tracing the professional career of individual editors and publishers, thousands of whom are mentioned in the Notes.

We believe that the publication of the Catalogue will be generally welcomed by students of American history and economics, wherever situated; for investigations into other large collections will be facilitated by the use of the present list, with its accompanying Notes and Chronological Arrangement.

PREFACE. ix

The question of what publications are properly to be included in a catalogue of newspapers, has often proved puzzling. It has been found impossible to draw hard and fast lines. Frequency of publication is no criterion, for the early news-letters were of infrequent issue, and some of the current monthlies are strictly news journals; neither is the title always a guide - in the last century there were some so called "magazines" (e. g., the Worcester, Mass.. Magazine), which were newspapers pure and simple. solving this problem for ourselves, we have quite disregarded frequency of issue; our list includes not only the ordinary newspapers, but all journals which are organs of societies, trades, or special interests,— such as missionary, religious, reform, literary, professional, commercial, family, illustrated, labor, etc., - for in such the news features generally predominate over the literary. The shades of distinction, however, are often fine, and no two persons are likely to agree upon the definition of a newspaper.

The files in the possession of the Society now number about 10,000 bound volumes. It will readily be seen, from the most cursory examination of this Catalogue, that the collection is fairly representative of nearly every State in the Union, and, to a less extent, of several other leading countries of the world. It represents nearly every political party in the history of the United States, and there are few interests, sacred or secular, that have not here some organ.

Our earliest original newspaper file is of the Oxford (Eng.) Mercurius Aulicus, for 1643-45 (with gaps). The Boston Gazette for 1719-24 (also incomplete) is our oldest American paper. Our files of leading American journals in the eighteenth century are large and important,—including such papers as Franklin's Pennsylvania Gazette, the Pennsylvania Packet (later, American Advertiser), the New York Journal, the Richmond Virginia Gazette, the Boston Gazette, the New England Courant, the Boston News-Letter, the Federal Intelligencer (Baltimore), and the South Carolina Gazette (Charleston). The English point of view is well illustrated in the considerable file of London papers for the same period.

Of many of the prominent American political papers of the present century, we have more or less complete files; among these, may be mentioned the following, as representative: Columbian Centinel, and Advertiser, Boston; Greeley's Jeffersonian, Greeley's Log Cabin, and Argus, Albany; Times, Tribune, and Post, New York; Aurora, Enquirer, and National Gazette, Philadelphia; Niles' Register, Baltimore; and National Intelligencer, Washington. Early Western journals. of importance, in our collection, are Cist's Weekly Advertiser (Cincinnati), the Western Spy (Cincinnati), the Kentucke Gazette (Lexington), the Western World (Frankfort, Ky.), the Frankfort Palladium, the Appeal (Memphis), and the Commercial Bulletin (St. Louis). Among the literary journals, are Dennie's Portfolio (1801-25), Morris's N. Y. Mirror (1828-41), the Cincinnati Literary Gazette (1824-25), and a complete file of the Publishers' Weekly (N. Y.), with its predecessors, from 1851 to date. Our file of the first railway journal in the world, the American Railroad Journal (New York) and its predecessor, is complete from 1836 to 1861. In religious journalism, we have such rarities as the Vorce (Wis.) Herald and the Kirtland (Ohio) Olive Branch, mouthpieces of Mormonism; various Second Adventist papers, illustrating the early stages of the movement; and the Chillicothe (Ohio) Weekly Recorder. The collection of missionary journals is large and varied, including a complete file of the Boston Panoplist and its successor, the Missionary Herald. In the communistic field, is a complete set (1851-79) of the Oneida Circular: Robert Dale Owen's New Harmony Gazette, and Cabet's Colonie Icarienne (Nauvoo, Ill.). The anti-slavery list is important, including Garrison's Liberator (Boston), the National Anti-Slavery Standard (New York), the National Era (Washington), Lundy's National Enquirer (Philadelphia), and the Cincinnati Philanthropist. The Indian, also, has his special organs in the collection; among them we can mention but one rarity, the Cherokee Phoenix (New Echota, Ga.), the first paper published by any of our aborigines in their own language.

Early files in the lead region of the Middle West are: the

PREFACE. xi

Wisconsin Territorial Gazette (Burlington, Iowa), the Miner's Journal and Northwestern Gazette of Galena, and the Miner's Free Press of Mineral Point. The earliest Wisconsin paper was the Green Bay Intelligencer (Dec., 1833), of which we have a nearly complete file, including the first 26 numbers; our files of the Milwaukee Sentinel and Wisconsin are nearly complete from the beginning, and we have early files from all the older towns in Wisconsin,—Madison, Lancaster, Waukesha, Racine, Kenosha, Oshkosh, Appleton, Superior, LaCrosse, Portage, etc. Indeed, there is no phase of Wisconsin life since 1833 that is not fairly illustrated by newspaper files in the possession of the Society.

This Catalogue has been long in preparation, and has at various stages necessitated the employment of many different hands; the information contained in the Notes covers a wide range, and has often been obtained from obscure sources; hence it would be surprising if mistakes have not here and there occurred. We have done our best, under the circumstances, to avoid them, but no doubt they will be discovered; we shall be grateful to be informed of such, and set right, that future editions, if issued, may have the benefit of the corrections. hundreds of correspondents, who have furnished data for the Notes, or who have, in the course of our inquiries, assisted us in perfecting files, we are deeply grateful, - they are, however, so numerous that we cannot here name them. But it would be ungracious were we not specifically to mention the valuable labors of the head of our newspaper department, Miss Blair, upon whom has fallen the burden of this undertaking; to her patient, intelligent research, and rare expertness in matters typographical, whatever is most valuable in this Catalogue is chiefly due.

Gazette Nationale, on te Moniteur Universel (d). Vols. 1-29, and 30-31 (index). May, 1789—Nov., 1799. 31 v. Q.

Reprint of the original publication; published by Henri Plon (Paris, 1863), with annotations. Illustrated with reproductions of contemporary engravings. Vols. 30-31 contain an analytical index to the entire file. Moniteur was established Nov. 24, 1789, as successor of Bulletin de U Assemblée Nationale; but in "the year IV" i. e., 1793), its issue was dated back to May, 1789, and a file for May—Nov. of that year was compiled from that of the Bulletin, in order that the file for 1793 might contain a full account of legislative proceedings from the beginning of the Revolution.

- Same. Introduction historique. Q.

This was published with the issue of 1796; "it contains an historical sketch of the earlier forms of government in France; of its earlier political assemblies, of the States-General, and of the assemblies of notables in 1787 and 1788; and of the events which led to the Revolution."

NEWSPAPER SCRAP-BOOKS.

In the library of the Society, large use is made of newspaper clippings. The majority of these are now mounted in pamphlet form, and are catalogued and classified as pamphlets; but, at an earlier stage of our work, indexed scrap-books were utilized, as they still are in some departments—e. g., Wisconsin necrology. Most of the scrap-books mentioned below, however, we have acquired by gift or purchase.

1752-94.—MS. extracts from early newspapers—Middle States, South, and Middle West. Indexed. 5 v. D.

Made by Dr. Lyman C. Draper from rare files. The extracts are contemporaneous accounts of the Revolutionary War and early settlements, being chiefly from the Maryland Gazette, Maryland Journal, Pennsylvania Gazette, Pennsylvania Journal, Philadelphia General Advertiser, Kentucke Gazette (1787-95), and Columbian Magazine. There are also a few extracts from papers of later dates, but bearing upon the period 1752-94. In Draper MSS., JJ, i-iv; S. xxxiii.

1758-1802.—English newspaper clippings. Q.

Contains unaccredited items relative to America, 1758-84; and to England, 1784-1802. In the latter section, are a considerable number of reports of proceedings in the Court of King's Bench, 1801.

1787-88.—MS. extracts from Kentucke Gazette (Lexington), Aug., 1787—Dec., 1788. Q.

Made by Rev. John D. Shane, an early Kentucky historian. In Draper MSS., CC. xviii.

- 1794-1846.—Western history and antiquities; biographical and obituary sketches. Indexed. (Shane, vol. i.) Q.
- 1823-50.—Historical, literary, and miscellaneous clippings from Western newspapers. (Shane, vol. iv.) F⁵.
- 1829-49.—Historical, scientific, and descriptive clippings. Indexed. (Shane, vol. iii.) F⁵.
- 1835-49.—Literary and historical clippings. Indexed. (Shane, vol. ii.) F.
- 1846-54.—Western history, biography, etc. (Shane, vol. xi.) Q.

The above five volumes of clippings were made by Shane for use in his work on Kentucky history.

- 1827-47.—Western history, legends, description, literary notices, etc. Q. Made by Shane. Contains several early allusions to Wisconsin. In Draper MSS., CC, xix.
- 1846-98.—Wisconsin necrology. 7 v. Indexed. Q.

Newspaper obituaries of pioneers and other prominent citizens of the State. The collection is carefully made by members of the library staff, and furnishes the basis for obituary notices in the Society's annual Proceedings.

1848-59. - The West in the Revolution. Q.

Clippings by Dr. Draper, from various Western newspapers — incidents of Revolutionary warfare, biographical sketches of its heroes, and of Indians, etc.

1852-58.—Connecticut history. 12 v. Q.

Clippings bearing upon Connecticut history.

1859-66.—American War of Secession: and politics. 24 v., of which 6 are indexed. O. to F.

Miscellaneous collection of reports of presidential conventions, campaign songs, and odds and ends of political and war news.

1861-65.—Correspondence of Wisconsin volunteers, in American War of Secession, 10 v.; and 8 v. (MS, index.) Q.

Letters written to home papers, by Wisconsin volunteers, giving company and regimental news. The clippings are classified by regiments and batteries, and form a rich quarry for regimental historians.

1870-76.—Wisconsin historical scraps. O.

A collection made by R. G. Thwaites of local history clippings from Wisconsin newspapers, including several historical addresses. Includes Thwaites's History of Winnebago County, published in the Oshkosh Times, 1876.

1872 92.—American history. Q.

Odds and ends of clippings referring to American history in general.

1873-87.—American Indians. 6 v. (2 v. are indexed.) Q.

Contains, besides clippings under this head, a large collection of photographs, wood-cuts, etc. illustrating Indian life.

1877-95.—Wisconsin history. Indexed. Q.

Miscellaneous clippings relative to State history. Since 1895, such clippings made by us, have been mounted in pamphlet form.

1879-88.—Science and discovery. Q.

1879-89.—Miscellaneous biography. Q.

1888-89. - American biography. Q.

— Books and authors. Indexed. 2 v. O.

The above five volumes represent earlier methods in the Society's library.

1890. -The Bennett law. 5 v. O.

A collection of newspaper discussions of the "Bennett law;" useful to students of the political history of Wisconsin.

1898. —Wisconsin volunteers, in the Spanish-American War. Q.

Newspaper reports of mobilization and movements of Wisconsin troops in the recent war. These will fill several volumes, but the work of collection is as yet (Nov., 1895) incomplete.
